Norwich Is To Be On Theatrical Map Once More-New Proprietor of Broadway Theater Making Extensive Alterations and Improvements Prior to Opening-Changes Also at Auditorium.

Wednesday and Thursday, not much change in temperature; light variable winds.

Predictions from the New York Herald: On Wednesday, fair weather will prevail, with nearly stationary temperatures and light westerly winds becoming variable and followed by increasing cloudiness in the northern districts of this section; and on Thursday unsettled weather with local rains and slowly rising temperature.

Observations in Norwich.

The following records, reported from Sevin's pharmacy, show the changes in temperature and the barometric changes Tuesday:

A special moving picture lamp that is made according to Mr. Davis' directions will, it is claimed, give a far superior light, doing away with a large part of the flickering of a film, and a special screen will also add to the value of this part of the entertainment programms.

Back of the footlights every piece of stage scenery is being retouched by a force of painters under the direction of Henry Grabbert of Providence, and he also is in charge of the work of redecorating the proscenium arch and of retouching the mural and ceiling decorations. A general color scheme of green and gold has been selected, making an attractive interior. Fifty sets of green plush draperies have been received for the boxes, for stage settings and for other furfor stage settings and for other fur-

In the sub-cellar, preparations are being made to install an entirely new heating plant by autumn, but the new ventilating system installed by S. Z. Poll is in good condition. In this sub-cellar, at the rear of the theater, and in the main cellar, tust above it winin the main cellar just above it, win-dows have been put in for the first time. The three dressing rooms for the stars on the stage and the 11 dressing rooms below stage for the other members of a company are all being put in first class shape by the piasterers and painters. In the front cellar a 10-horsepower motor connect-ed with a 5-kilowatt direct current generator is being installed by the Whitehall Electric company. This will supply the moving ploture machine the direct current at 80 volts having been found to give a much steadler

WILLIAM M. WILLIAMS

PASSES 85th BIRTHDAY. Was Thames River Navigator Over

Clearer eyed and more vigorous than many a man of fifty, William M. Williams passed his eighty-fifth birthday on Tuesday and in the evening, after a trip down the river that he knows so well, with memory that is marvelous he let his mind play over a few of the many interesting experiences of his younger days. Mr. Williams and passed the day quietly by going down to Neptune park, New London, where they were the guests of Mrs. Mary F. Doolittle of this city. The genial spirited old gentleman, with all the lusty appetite of his youth, wrought havoc with a shore dinner at the beach, Mr. Williams added to the beach. Mr. Williams added to the festive atmosphere of the occasion by using for the first time, although he did not need it, a handsome gold-headed cane that was presented to him when he headed a certain organization away back in 1873.

A chapter in his life this he remembers with distinctness was when he plied the waters of the Thames and Fishers Island sound as captain of the Fishers Island sound as captain of the old side-wheeler Liberty, just about 55 years ago. There was competition on the river in those days too, but the two rival boats dropped out of the fight in midseason and Captain Williams made money on a schedule of fares that took a passenger setween Norwell.

California, (and he had had some adventures there, too, during a three years stay, in that then wold country) and wished to get down to Westerly to see a friend. When they taxed him 75 cents on the river boat for the trip to Stonington, from which he was go-ing over by train, Mr. Williams was a little wroth. He had read in the paper little wroth. He had read in the paper that morning that the Greenmans, Mystic shipbuilders, had just completed a steamer, built to give their employees work during a slack spell, and were offering it for sale cheap. From Stonington Mr. Williams went to Mystic instead of Westerly, although he visited the latter place later and won a bride there, and a day later he was a full fleged navigator. His company make New London. Tuesday the boat he was on made one stop and took two hours for the trip, but it was party due to a breakdown

Never letting business interfere with his interest in the welfare of the com-munity, Mr. Williams has been alderman, acting mayor and in other po-sitions of public trust. He follows politics today with a keen and analy-tical eye and he is absolutely against the Bull Moosers and their candidate. All his life Mr. Williams says he has voted the republican ticket straight out thi stime, if it necessary to defeat Roosevelt, his vote is cast for Wood-
